Published Weekly in the Interest of the Most Livable and Fastest Growing Area of the Great American Desert

Weekly News Review of the Joshua Monument Desert Covering Morongo Valley, Pioneertown, Paradise Valley, Joshua Tree, Sunfair, Indian Cove, Yucca Valley, and Twentynine Palms.

AN HONEST THIEF-?

JOSHUA TREE—Mr. and Mrs. Meredith Willey discovered an honest thief in East St. Louis during their vacation trip East this summer. Mrs. Willey left her purse lying on a table near a phone booth and when she returned for it, it was gone. Last week the Willeys received a package from East St. Louis, in it was her purse with glasses, gold compact, other pawnable items, identification cards, and pocket-book. Only thing missing was the money. The Willeys had an other-wise pleasant trip.

Freak Electrical Storm Rips Local Communities

JOSHUA TREE—Late Saturday night an intense electrical storm slashed across the Joshua Monument Desert from the northeast before it spent its fury on the slopes of the San Gorgonia and San Jacinto mountain ranges. It was one of the most brilliant and fastest moving storms seen in this area.

Damage was widespread, but relatively light. Twelve fires were started in Yucca Valley. Targets were Joshua Trees and Juniper. The Yucca Valley Fire Department put out four fires and the rest were extinguished by local citizens, according to Fire Chief Clay Tunstall.

Lightening flashes near the fire crew knocked out the wiring system on the truck, nearly flattened members of the crew from the concussion. Practically no rain fall accompained the storm and the extreemly dry brush created a great fire hazard.

Fire Chief Tunstall was high in his praise of the assisting citizen volunteers who went the other direction to fight fires when ever the truck was sent to the far end of the valley. Frank Garske found chopping away at burning trees on several ocassions, before the truck arrived. Ed Hardesty, Jules Boldizar and his brother-in-law Frank Kazmar assisted on the fire truck.

Disaster Council Formed in Yucca Valley

YUCCA VALLEY—A defense meeting was held last Wednesday night at the Yucca Valley Community Hall to organize a Disaster Council for the valley. Chairman O. D. Thomas explained the organization and functions of the Disaster Council and outlined the program to be followed here.

A Red Cross chapter will be organized here, also, in connection with the Disaster Council. It is expected that a portable blood bank will be here in the immediate future for whole blood donations whch are badly needed by the armed forces.

Next meeting of the Disaster Council will be held Tuesday, September 12th at 8 p. m.

Belated School Construction Upsets Schedules

TWENTYNINE PALMS—Pupils in the West portion of the School District will attend school in Joshua Tree and Yucca Valley until the Joshua Monument School in Yucca Valley is completed. First and Second grade children will report to Mrs. Mae Reed at the old school in Yucca Valley while Mrs. Pearl Jones will be in charge of the third and Fourth grade children in the Legion Hall in Yucca Valley.

Mrs. Ruth Collins, who will be Vice Principal of the Joshua Monument School, and Mrs. Paul Meckna, will teach the combination seventh, eight, and fifth, sixth grade classes respectively in the Sportsman's Club in Joshua Tree.

Mr. Robert Stephenson who had previously been employed as Custodion of the Joshua Monument School will take care of both schools.

Bus drivers will be Mr. Kenneth Williams and Mr. Roy Pifer.

The decision to hold school in Joshua Tree and Yucca Valley was reached by the School Board at an open meeting in Twentynine Palms on the evening of August 31. The meeting was well attended by members of the three communities involved and also by the teachers. The decision was reached after about an hour of discussion in which everyone had a chance to expess his views on the question. Almost unanimous agreement by the persons n attendance was reached after Mr. Jost offered to lease the Sportsmen's Club to the School District for one dollar. Acting according to the desires of the majority, Trustee John Duncan made the motion to accept Mr. Jost's offer and also to lease the Legion Hall in Yucca Valley, which motion was seconded by Trustee Ralph Dunn and was passed unanimously.

The necessity of using temporary buildings as a result of failure of the Contractor to complete the Joshua Monument School by September 18, has forced rearrangement of bus schedules so that the School District cannot give as good service as the pupils will enjoy when they move to the new school. The necessity of the High School bus and the two elementary buses having to meet in Yucca Valley at approxximately 8:00 A.M. to exchange passengers causes the pupils from Yucca Valley and Morongo Valley to arrive at the Joshua Tree School a few minutes earlier than would otherwise be necessary. In the afternoon they are likewise detained longer than would otherwise be required because the bus to Morongo must wait in Yucca Valley for delivery of the elementary pupils from Joshua Tree and the High School students from Twentynine Palms.

The following bus schedules will be in effect for the first few days of school as a temporary schedule with the hope that improvements can be made.

Morning Schedule:

Mercury Bus Route 1. grades 5 through high school only.

Leaves Morongo Valley 7:25, arrives Yucca School 8:00, returns to Morongo Valley.

Mercury Bus Route 2. grades 1 through 4.

SUNFAIR—This year's Turkey Fair is scheduled to be a real big affair, according to plans set forth at the combined meeting of the Sunfair Turkey Growers Association and the Sunfair Chamber of Commerce Meeting last Wednesday evening.

Besides the usual display of prize birds there will be a three day carnival of fun, music and entertainment. Beginning on Friday evening, October 13th and lasting through Saturday and Sunday, the Turkey Fair will feature bicycle, jeep and horse racing, dancing, turkey trots as well and educational features on raising turkeys.

Tom Frye, chairman of the Turkey Fair will announce more detailed plans in a later issue of the Joshua Journal.

Airbase Getting New Face

TWENTYNINE PALMS—Reactivation of the Twentlnine Palms Airbase is going ahead of schedule, according to Wray Davis, one of the organizers of the aviation school to be formed soon at the former Navy airforce base. This week the buildings will get a fresh coat of paint, and will be ready shortly for furnishing.

Applications are still open for skilled workmen. Experienced flight instructors, navigators, radio technicians, electricians, metrologist and instrument technicians in this area are urged to make application as instructors.

PALM WELLS C OF C

An interesting meeting of the Palm Wells Chamber of Commerce was held at the "Three Sisters Ranch" this week. Progress on water, telephones, and roads was reported. A special meeting to be held Sept. 13th, Wed. at the Buckskin Club.

AMBULANCE BUSY

JOSHUA TREE—The ambulance made several calls this past week and saved a life with prompt use of the oxygen in one case. Delay in calling the ambulance can be dangerous. Just call the operator at Joshua Tree; give her scecific directions and give your name as caller. Then Hang up; the operator will do the rest. Cost to join the Ambulance Association is only $3.00 a year.

Sunfair is nearly one-hundred percent signed up, thanks to Forrest Summers and his committee.

HOW HIGH IS UP?

YUCCA VALLEY—Jules Boldizar, president of Yucca Valley Chamber of Commerce and owner of the Yucca Valley Sky Corral, was reported for low flying over the Village this week while taking pictures for the Yucca Valley brochure.

Boldizar worked one whole day taking radio equipment and other apparatus from the plane's cockpit to make room for a special photographer from L. A. Picture taking on the first flight was unsuccessful, but before a second flight could be made a call from Jack Cones, Constable, put the restrictions on. According to Cones some one in the village complained to his office of the low flying plane.

Art Foundation Club House Opens in Nov.

JOSHUA TREE—According to Mrs. Elinor Hall, president and founder of the Fine Arts Foundation of the Joshua Desert, an affiliation of the Hollywood Women's Club, the Foundation's club house will have its formal opening the18th of November.

Plans for the building of the big art studios and home for some of the world's most famous artists and craftsmen are going ahead as pre-scheduled, and the first building will be started in the near future, on the club house property. Mrs. Hall is donating fifteen to twenty palm trees to be set in the Park-way on Park Blvd.

"IT'S VACATION TIME FOR JOURNAL".....

This somewhat slim edition isour vacation for this season. Inas-much as our high-speed lino-type operator is out fishing this week, we are left with two choi-ces, and we're taking the easiest one, a four paged edition.

* * * *

Next week we will make an important announcement concerning some changes in our publication which we expect will meet with approval, and a few, "It's about time comments". No one realizes more than the Editor that our news coverage and service has been very inadequate this past summer, and no one has had less time to speculate over it than the Editor. However, our planned changes should give us more time for news nosing.

HI Neighbors! .....

Chapter Two of What We Do When Our Vocation Takes Us On Location!

With our cast fairly well introduced, let's roll the first scene in "The Black Rider". Director McDonald leads us to a lonesome spot in the blazing sun and sets up the scene while Bill (Brick) Bradford sets up the camera. Sheila and yours truly do a quick check on lines with Mary Chaffee, the Script Supervisor. .(she knows the lines, we just say them.) Our horse, Sam. . (love that nag) is lead on, we clime into the saddle and try to stay there. Boom-man Jimmy Loomis gives us "speed". .the director says "action". . .and pictures are being made. We ride in, dismount, walk over to the lovely Sheila and say: "Well, Sheila. .(That's her name in the pic, too) . .it looks like you've got your work cut out for you. Gene Autry just rode into town." Sheila looks up cooly. .(how a gal like that can ever look cool!) and answers. ."So?"; we register with our Pasadena No. 2 look and say. ."Don't you know who Gene Autry is?" The director says "cut". .they move in for a close-up and that's the first scene in the can!

We'd like to follow thru on every scene, but this is only a column not a book, so we'll just skim around and pick up high lights.

We think you'll chuckle at the scene down by the water-hole when Pat Buttram shows Gene his "buffaler" gun. .(It's just an inch smaller than a bazooka). He tells Gene he's just shot a thousand buffalos, and Gene replies that there hasn't been that many buffaloes in the territory since the Indians signed the peace treaty. Just then Chief Thunder-Cloud let's fly an arrow that pins Pat's hat to a tree. Pat does a double take and in that wonderfully cracked voice of his, says: "Gene, are you shore all the Indians signed that treaty?"

One of the big thrills of the pic is furnished by stuntman Boyd Stockman and Bob Woodward. At a full gallop Boyd "bull-dogs" Bob off his horse and they roll down a steep bank at top speed. We kept listening for the sound of breaking necks, but as soon as the cameras are stopped the boys are up and asking Mr. McDonald if it was all right, or should they do it again!! (By the way, Boyd holds the Hollywood record of 14 horse-falls in one day! That's one record we will never, never try to break.)

Pardon us if we repeat, but keep liking this guy Autry. During the picture we have no less than four big fights with him, and we usually end up going head-over-heals to the floor or ground. The moment the scene is ended, Gene comes over, picks us up and asks: "Are you all right, Don?" Several times we have had to reach around and gather up our scattered marbles, but we still like the idea of a star being a regular guy!

Oh yes, THE TORNADO! It hit us about 7 one night and it was a real twister while it lasted. We stood by the door and watched the porch roof go off of the Golden Stallion, but didn't mind because we got to hold Martha. . (Another G. S. beauty). Her little girl was at home alone and Martha wanted to go to her. . wind or no! Gene was in his room and watched the porch do a fast bounce right in front of him. The roof went off of the sound stage and the storm was over. Only a couple of mnor causualties. .We were lucky! And that's a very brief report of what happens when you go on location. . .IN THE MOVIES. .which, by the way, ARE BETTER THAN EVER!

A SUMMER GALE

Deep storm clouds darken in the West.
And roll unleashed o'er mountain-crest;
While driving wind fast whips the rain
Against my cabin window-pane.

The furious storm roads wild tonight,
Nor quiets down 'til all its might
Is spent in one last maddening gale;
Then settles down in woeful wail!

I do not like a storm at night;
It fills me with a sickening fright.
So now I beg the storm no more
To battle against my cabin-door!

The Face on the living room floor

Here's a familiar sight in most homes... Junior sprawled out full length on the living room floor with his nose buried in a comic book. Why both boys and girls will pass up a comfortable chair in preference to the hard floor is open to argument, but the fact that they choose a poorly-lighted spot nine times out of ten is not. Good eyesight is a priceless heritage, and the best way to preserve it is to see that your children avoid eye strain. Adequate lighting is your best preventative. Now that school has started, it is doubly important. Be certain that you have enough lamps with sufficient wattage to light your rooms properly... then see that you and your children use the light they give. It will pay big dividends in better eyesight!

SUNFAIR NOTES .....

This past week-end saw the biggest crowd of visitors ever at Sunfair, except during the Turkey Fair. Besides many persons returning for school and to help in shipping the turkeys, quite a few prospective ranchers were looking around. . . .Delay in surfacing of the Sunfair road has made quite a slough. One of Mac Andrews feed trucks and trailer was stuck at the wash Thursday a.m. . . .Bishop and King both started shippng turkeys this week. The Cantina will be a social hall until the "wee hours" every night, almost, until shipping season is over. Birds are biggest ever this year. . .Sunfair is developing a "horsey set". Both the Xiques and Kings have riding horses now. . . .Low buzzing by planes recently caused a little trouble in the flocks. This is a restricted area and pilots should stay high.

MAC ANDREWS TO BULK FEED TURKS

REDLANDS—The Mac Andrews Feed and Milling Company announced plans here this week to erect a storage shed and feed silos at Sunfair, California's newest and fastest growing turkey raising center, for the purpose of bulk feeding turkeys. On a plot near 2nd and Coyote Valley Rd. in Sunfair, donated by Lester V. Peterman and Chester R. Bunker, the Mac Andrews company will erect a large warehouse and a system of thirty foot silos which will hold bulk feeds.

This system of bulk distribution is the first to be tried in turkey feeding in the United States and should add as much as twenty-five to thirty cents more profit per bird, for the raiser.

Construction on the bulk plant will commence sometime this fall and will be ready for next season's feeding. Geo. Bloom, Joshua Tree contractor has made a bid to construct the new buildings.
